IV Sunday in Ordinary Time

When a communicator transmits false news to us, and even more so, if he does so with the bad intention of obtaining some benefit, we must identify him and not give credit to his communications, since he has lost credibility for us to believe in his messages. God our creator gave us the ability to communicate with each other, and he has always tried, through nature or through his prophets, to communicate with each of us. God sent his prophets to speak in his name, that is, they are his communicators.

In the Old Testament, when God spoke to the people of Israel in the desert, he spoke through Moses. The chosen people were in a panic because God's voice was too strong, so they asked God to speak only to Moses, therefore Moses became the communicator between God and them. In the first reading from the book of Deuteronomy, we read how Moses tells the people the following: “The Lord God will raise up among you, among his brothers, a prophet like me. They will listen to Him. In the same reading we are presented with the description that the Lord makes, the prophet and how he will hold accountable those who do not listen to his words.

When Jesus began his mission, he communicated to the people in such an accurate and simple way that the smallest and the ignorant people could understand him. From his first preaching, those who heard him realized the authority with which he spoke. That authority was evident through several things: by the confidence with which he spoke; the novelty and beauty of his message; for the consonance with the Word written in the prophets; but above all because it supported his teaching with the testimony of his life and his attention to everyone. Especially the little ones, the needy, sinners; and because with the power of his miracles he showed all the divine authority of his Word.

My brothers and sisters, on this Sunday the Lord Jesus invites us to remember that we are prophets and as prophets we are called to announce the Good News, and bear witness to Him.

IV Domenica del Tempo Ordinario

Quando un comunicatore ci trasmette notizie false, e a maggior ragione se lo fa con la cattiva intenzione di trarne qualche vantaggio, dobbiamo identificarlo e non dare credito alle sue comunicazioni, poiché ha perso credibilità affinché noi crediamo nelle sue messaggi. Dio nostro creatore ci ha dato la capacità di comunicare tra noi, e ha sempre cercato, attraverso la natura o attraverso i suoi profeti, di comunicare con ciascuno di noi. Dio ha mandato i suoi profeti a parlare in suo nome, cioè sono i suoi comunicatori. Nell'Antico Testamento, quando Dio parlava al popolo d'Israele nel deserto, parlava attraverso Mosè. Il popolo eletto era nel panico perché la voce di Dio era troppo forte, così chiesero a Dio di parlare solo a Mosè, quindi Mosè divenne il comunicatore tra Dio e loro. Nella prima lettura del libro del Deuteronomio, leggiamo come Mosè dice al popolo quanto segue: «Il Signore Dio susciterà in mezzo a voi, tra i suoi fratelli, un profeta come me. Lo ascolteranno. Nella stessa lettura ci viene presentata la descrizione che fa il Signore, del profeta e di come riterrà responsabile coloro che non ascoltano le sue parole.

Quando Gesù iniziò la sua missione, comunicava alla gente in un modo così accurato e semplice che anche i più piccoli e gli ignoranti potevano capirlo. Fin dalla sua prima predicazione, coloro che lo ascoltarono si resero conto dell'autorità con cui parlava. Quell'autorità era evidente da diverse cose: dalla sicurezza con cui parlava; la novità e la bellezza del suo messaggio; per la consonanza con la Parola scritta nei profeti; ma soprattutto perché ha supportato il suo insegnamento con la testimonianza della sua vita e la sua attenzione a tutti. Soprattutto i piccoli, i bisognosi, i peccatori; e perché con la potenza dei suoi miracoli manifestava tutta l'autorità divina della sua Parola.

Fratelli e sorelle, in questa domenica il Signore Gesù ci invita a ricordare che siamo profeti e come profeti siamo chiamati ad annunciare la Buona Novella e a testimoniarLo.

IV Domingo del Tiempo Ordinario

Cuando un comunicador nos transmite una noticia falsa, y más si lo hace con la mala intención de sacar algún beneficio de ello, debemos identificarlo y no dar crédito a sus comunicaciones, ya que ha perdido credibilidad para que creamos en sus mensajes. Dios nuestro creador nos dio la capacidad de comunicarnos unos con otros, y siempre ha buscado, a través de la naturaleza o de sus profetas, comunicarse con cada uno de nosotros. Dios envió a sus profetas para hablar en su nombre, es decir, son sus comunicadores.

En el Antiguo Testamento, cuando Dios habló al pueblo de Israel en el desierto, habló a través de Moisés. El pueblo elegido entró en pánico porque la voz de Dios era demasiado fuerte, por lo que le pidieron a Dios que hablara solo con Moisés, por lo que Moisés se convirtió en el comunicador entre Dios y ellos. En la primera lectura del libro del Deuteronomio leemos cómo Moisés le dice al pueblo lo siguiente: «El Señor Dios levantará entre vosotros, entre sus hermanos, un profeta como yo. Lo escucharán. En la misma lectura se nos presenta la descripción que el Señor hace del profeta y cómo pedirá cuentas a quienes no escuchen sus palabras.

Cuando Jesús comenzó su misión, se comunicaba con la gente de una manera tan precisa y sencilla que hasta los más pequeños e ignorantes podían entenderlo. Desde su primera predicación, quienes lo escuchaban se daban cuenta de la autoridad con la que hablaba. Esa autoridad se evidenciaba por varias cosas: por la confianza con la que hablaba; la novedad y belleza de su mensaje; por la consonancia con la Palabra escrita en los profetas; pero sobre todo porque apoyó su enseñanza con el testimonio de su vida y su atención a todos. Especialmente los pequeños, los necesitados, los pecadores; y porque con el poder de sus milagros manifestó toda la autoridad divina de su Palabra.

Hermanos y hermanas, en este domingo el Señor Jesús nos invita a recordar que somos profetas y como profetas estamos llamados a anunciar la Buena Nueva y a dar testimonio de Él.

Planning to be a Catholic School Teacher?

It is critical for you to know that to be hired to teach in any Catholic School Board in Ontario as part of your application for employment you must provide a letter of recommendation from your Pastor. It is highly recommended to contact the pastor a year in advance, especially in light of the fact that all universities make this matter known to every student at the beginning of the year. Please plan to have a conversation with your pastor early you will avoid disappointment and stress at the time when applications are to be submitted.

The following are required at St. Jude's:

- ◆ Be (yourself, not your parents or grandparents) a registered member of the parish using offertory envelopes (at least 1 year before the application).
- ◆ Be in the parish for participation in Sunday/Saturday mass for a minimum of 12 months prior to approaching the pastor.
- ◆ Make your request 3 months in advance. Applicant must be the one making the requests.
- ◆ No request by a relative or a parent will be accepted.

The pastor has to be able to recommend you, and that is only possible if he knows you at the basic level of regular mass attendance. Personal knowledge of the candidate's faith practice is what the pastor needs to recommend, not your relatives, but yourself, as this is a personal recommendation.
